Dear Sir or Madam,

Currently studying on Master's degree in Computer Science, specialising in software and web architectures and engineering, I write to you to apply for the position of full-stack developer advertised on your website.

Through personal projects I already use my knowledge and know-how to create programs, such as website, to make my daily life easier. I have a clear interest in the areas presented because it could allow me to excel in my passion. Furthermore, this could bring me higher and help me to become project manager.

Please find enclosed my curriculum vitae outlining my previous experiences and qualifications. Also, I remain at your complete disposal for a possible interview in order to explain my ambitions more fully to you.

Thank you for considering my request, and i look forward to your reply.

Yours faithfully,

CANTA Thomas
